INTERESTING PROGRAMS

Tue, Jan 8/19 - Deadline to apply to UBC's Sciences Po Dual Degree Program

This program is a great fit for students who are interested in politics, international relations, and global issues. Many Dual Degree students aspire to study law or to work in public policy, government, diplomacy, or humanitarian and international organizations. Applying to the UBC Sciences Po Dual Degree program involves a two-step application process: first, students apply for a UBC BA and then submit a supplemental application. Successful students will be shortlisted for an interview. More info at <http://sciencespo.ubc.ca>

Mon, Dec 3/18 - Queen's University Enrichment Studies Unit Online Registration Opens

The enrichment Studies Unit at Queen's University has connected students in Grades 7 – 12 with challenging and inspiring academics alongside the dynamic learning and living environment of university life. Financial Aid and Awards are available for students who require financial assistance. For more information, visit <https://esu.queensu.ca/programs/#esu-programs-list>

UBC Science One

This is UBC's flagship first year science program to prepare students for any honours level science degree, and provide a foundation for graduate school or professional schools. Students who have a genuine interest in science and want to join a community of scientists are encouraged to apply. Though the program is rigorous, they're not necessarily looking for students with the highest grades. They're looking for people who want to pursue science. Students should know that competitive programs like CAPS and Medical School recognize Science One as being a strong foundation.

CSP is for students who want exposure to all the sciences in a cohort setting. It is a standard time-table and is first come first serve during registration in June. Because it's first come-first serve and has a standard time table, the program attracts very strong students.

In addition to applying for Admission to UBC in the Faculty of Science, students must apply to Science One with a separate on-line application form <https://scienceone.ubc.ca/apply>.

March Break Law School Experience at U of T

The University of Toronto Faculty of Law is once again pleased to offer a March Break module for students in grades 10 – 12 interested in discussing legal concepts, learning about the realities of our legal system, and applying their knowledge in a variety of engaging interactive activities.

In the Shoes of a Law Student: The Complete Law School Experience

How do you get into law school? What is it like being a law student? What types of careers are available in the field of law? The brand new March Break youth program at the University of Toronto Faculty of Law explores these questions and more. This one-week module offers grade 10-12 students a unique glimpse into the study of law at Canada's leading law school. Through interactive workshops, lectures, field trips and legal simulations, students will immerse themselves in the world of legal education and step into the shoes of a law student. Register at:
